IN MEMORY OF ANNE DUNN

You can make a special gift in memory of Anne Dunn to support student awards in Media and Communications, within the Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences.

The Anne Dunn Memorial Fund

The Anne Dunn Memorial Fund has been established to commemorate the work of an outstanding colleague and foundational staff member in the Department of Media and Communications at the University of Sydney. Associate Professor Anne Dunn was a highly respected and widely loved Australian journalism educator, media scholar and broadcast media professional who had a particular passion for creative partnerships between industry and the academy.

Donations to the Anne Dunn Memorial Fund will be used to foster excellence in media practice by offering awards (including prizes and scholarships) to eligible undergraduate and/or postgraduate students to support their study or to recognise academic achievement in areas such as Broadcast Journalism, Video Production, Radio Broadcasting, Critical Media Practice or Honours level study.

“Anne taught me to believe in radio, and her career was proof that a woman’s intellect can take her anywhere. She was a legend in ABC, BBC and SBS radio and television.” Kate Leaver – MECO graduate

“Anne was admired not just for her high-level professional attributes – her leadership skills, experience, insight, reason and intelligence – but also for her personal characteristics of warmth, wit, humour and dynamism.”

Angela Romano – Senior Lecturer, Queensland University of Technology; Journalism Education Association of Australia
